1. Background: Money laundering is defined as disguising the source or ownership of illegally obtained/ gained funds/money to make them appear arising out of legitimate source or hiding money to avoid paying taxes and thereby converting black money into white money or using legally obtained money in pursuit of unlawful activities. Money laundering takes place in three phases. The first phase is placement when bulk cash is deposited into banking system or pumped into any legitimate system using funds from illegal activities. The Second phase is layering where multiple transactions are used to separate the proceeds from their illegal source. The third phase is integration where these illegal funds are mixed with apparently legitimate business earnings.

2. Statement of Policy

Most developed countries (including Australia, Hong Kong, Singapore, Taiwan and the UK) have laws making it a criminal offence for a company or an individual to assist in the laundering of the proceeds of serious crime.

The Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 (“PMLA”) was brought into force with effect from 1st July 2005. Necessary Notifications / Rules under the said Act were published in the Gazette of India on July 01, 2005 by the Department of Revenue, Ministry of Finance, Government of India. Pursuant to amendments made to the PMLA and Rules thereunder, updated guidelines in the context of recommendations made by Financial Action Task force (FATF) on anti-money laundering standards is enclosed. These guidelines have been divided into two parts; the first part is an overview on the background and essential principles that concern combating Money Laundering (ML) and Terrorist Financing (TF). The second part provides a detailed account of the procedures and obligations to be followed by all registered intermediaries to ensure compliance with AML/ CFT directives. These guidelines shall also apply to their branches and subsidiaries located abroad, especially, in countries which do not or insufficiently apply the FATF Recommendations, to the extent local laws and regulations permit. When local applicable laws and regulations prohibit implementation of these requirements, the same shall be brought to the notice of SEBI.

The Firm conducts its business in conformity with all laws and regulations of the jurisdictions in which it transacts business. In order to ensure that the Firm meets its legal obligations, employees of PCS Securities Ltd (hereinafter called the “PCS”) must be mindful of the problem of money laundering and constantly vigilant for signs of such activity. Every effort must be made to "know" and verify the identity of the Firm’s customers, to be aware at all times of what might constitute a suspicious transaction or suspicious counterparty behavior, to adhere to appropriate account opening and record-keeping procedures, and to observe PCS procedure for reporting suspicious circumstances to Management, Compliance and the relevant authorities.

Recognizing and combating money laundering: "Know Your Customer" The types of transactions which may be used by a money launderer are almost unlimited, making it difficult to define a suspicious transaction. It is, however, reasonable to question a transaction which may be inconsistent with an investor’s known, legitimate business or personal activities or with the normal business for that type of investor. Hence, the first key to recognition is to "know your customer". Employees should be sensitive to potential warning signs of money laundering. When establishing a relationship, maintaining a relationship or providing services, especially when dealing with a client infrequently, all reasonable steps must be taken to determine, to verify where necessary, and to remain apprised of the identity, financial position and business objectives of the client. Client identification must be carried out before any dealing takes place and the Firm's account opening form must be completed and processed for every new account.

3. The Objective

The objective is to have in place adequate policy, practice and procedure that promote professional standards and help the Company to be prevented from being used, intentionally or unintentionally for money laundering. KYC Standards and AML Measures would enable the Company to know/ understand its customers, the beneficial owners in case of non-individual entities, the principals behind customers who are acting as agents and their financial dealings better which in turn will help the Company to manage its risks prudently.

4. Definition of Money Laundering (ML)

ML is the processes by which criminals attempt to disguise the true origin of the proceeds of their criminal activities by the use of the financial system so that after a series of transactions, the money, its ownership and the income earned from it appear to be legitimate. According to Financial Action Task Force (FATF), ML is the processing of criminal proceeds in order to disguise their illegal origin.

This process is often achieved by converting the illegally obtained proceeds from their original form, usually cash, into other forms such as deposits or securities and by transferring them from one financial institution to another, using the account of apparently different persons or businesses.

Section 3 of PMLA, describes the offence of ML as under:

“Whosoever directly or indirectly attempts to indulge or knowingly assists or knowingly is a party or is actually involved in any process or activity connected with the proceeds of crime and projecting it as untainted property shall be guilty of offence of money-laundering.”

Money Laundering Cycle

The process of ML, regardless of its degree of complexity, is accomplished in three stages, namely the placement stage, layering stage and integration stage.

- (i) Placement Stage
This involves the physical movement of the cash proceeds. For most criminal transactions, cash is the most common medium of exchange and criminals who accumulate large volumes of cash are the most vulnerable to detection and seizure. As a result, money launderers will attempt, through placement, to channel the funds into a bank.
- (ii) Layering Stage
After the funds enter a bank, the money launderer will further separate the illicit proceeds from their illegal source through a process of layering. Layering occurs by conducting multiple, complex, financial transactions that make it difficult to link the money to an illegal activity. Layering disguises or eliminates the audit trail.
- (iii) Integration Stage
During this process the money launderer will integrate the illicit funds into the economy by providing what appears to be a legitimate explanation for his or her illicit financial wealth.

For example, integration of these proceeds might include the purchase of real estate, businesses, securities, automobiles or gems & jewellery. Integration moves the funds back into the economy with the appearance of being normal business earnings. It would become extremely difficult at this point for a bank to distinguish between illicit funds and legitimate funds.

5. Customer Due Diligence Measures:

The PCS shall review the information obtained about the customer and apply appropriate customer due diligence (CDD) standards on given change in the risk categorization of the customer. All documents, data or information of all clients and beneficial owners collected under the CDD process shall be updated periodically. The PCS shall review the KYC profile of its customers on regular intervals. If there is a change in the profile of the customer identified based on set criteria for instance, sudden change in the transaction pattern etc. of the customer, the PCS shall review the KYC details of the customer on the identification of such event, even though the same is before the review period.

The review of the customer shall include a review of any change in the customer details i.e address, business/ profession, nature of business, change in ownership, change in governing body/ directors etc.
